Alexandria Gazette.

FRIDAY EVENING, FEB. 13, 1903.

He Demanded Protection. Senator Van Wyck of Nebraska in speaking had a peculiar style of deliv-ery, and as he warmed to his subject it was his habit to move restlessly from one side of the chamber to the other, continually talking. He talked so fast that he often "spluttered," and sena-tors were careful to keep out of range of the moisture he hissed through his

Mr. Ingalls and Mr. Spooner once sat directly in front of "Mr. Punch," as Senator Van Wyck was often called because of his resemblance to that not-ed character, when he was delivering an impassioned utterance, and an atom of spray rested upon the hand of the

He adjusted his spectacles, carefully inspected his solled hand and deliberately signaled for one of the pages to come to him. Then in one of his famous whispers, which penetrated the entire chamber, Ingalis said:

"Boy, bring an umbrella for Senator Spooner and a rubber overcoat for me." The incident provoked general laughter, but it did not interfere with Van Wyck's speech. He simply shifted his position so as to get beyond range of his always faultlessly dressed and sar-castic colleague.—Washington Post.

Terne.
It is truly surprising what erroneous ideas are entertained by the general public concerning the true meaning of many terms in general use. A striking example of this is the word "terne" as applied to tin plate. Usually it is understood that this word is derived from the French one, meaning "dull." This is totally incorrect. Terne plate is a sheet or plate of iron and steel covered with an alloy of tin and lead in the proportion of two-thirds lead and one-third tin. It is this union of the three met-als-iron, lead and tin-that gave rise to the word terne plate, terne being an equivalent to the English terne, meaning "threefold." The origin of the erroneous definition of this term was the fact that because of the large percentage of lead used in coating terne plates it is duller in hue than the ordinary tin plate, which is frequently designated "bright plate" in contradistinction to

The Fire God's Wrath.

A curious story comes to us from the suburbs. A resident in the near neighborhood of London has a museum in his house in which the principal curl-osity is a fire god which has been worshiped for many centuries in an Indian temple. Once when the owner of the house took a party of people to look at the museum he proposed in fun that they should all kotow to the image. This they all laughingly consented to do, all except two ladies, who declared it was wicked. The fire god was revenged within two months. One of the ladies had her house burned to the ground the week after, and the other on a later date fell backward into the fire and sustained some terrible burns. We give the tale without comment.-London Chronicle.

Transportation Facilities.

Moritz Gottlieb Saphir, a journalist and one of the wittlest men of the Jewish race in Germany, once criticised King Ludwig's verses so sharply that he was ordered, says Household Words, to quit Munich within twenty-four

The court chamberlain waited upon the journalist with the king's command and, having delivered it, considerately asked:

We can learn from the Japanese a thing or two about stabling horses. In Japan horses are backed into their stalls; then a door is closed at the head, which has a grain and hayrack conveniently constructed, to which the nag is secured. When needed, the door is swung back and the horse led forth. No one gets kicked, no refuse matter is visible to the visitor, and it seems to be a sensible way to construct a place

The Easy Pill.

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organ involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble, E. S. Lendbeater & Son.
